What evidence do I need to provide to show that I have a disability?

In order for the University to put appropriate support in place for a disability or long-term health condition, you will need to provide documentary evidence. A scan or digital copy will be fine; original documents are not necessary.

Evidence can be in the form of a doctor's note or, for Specific Learning Difficulties (SpLDs) such as dyslexia, an educational psychologist's report is needed.

Details of what needs to be included in a doctor's note are given in our Medical Evidence Guidance for Health Professionals.
